

A Peek at Our Week

Week Seven

This week we will continue to work on forming friendships amongst the children. We will practice turn taking and sharing. Specifically, we will review the Daniel Tiger's song, "You can take a turn, and then I'll get it back" to facilitate turn taking during targeted activities.

Our literary emphasis is a book called, "Chicka Chicka 1-2-3" by Bill Martin Jr., Martin Sampson, and Lois Ehlert. The goal of this book is to help children become familiar with number vocabulary from 1-10. For children who are ready we will practice 10-20 as well. Since we are discussing Letterland Characters that represent the first letter of the names of children in our class, this week we will talk about Mallin's letter "M" or "Munching Mike".

This Friday we will start Quarter 1 conferences. These conferences will be brief (15-20 minutes). During these conferences, we will review your child's "Teaching Strategies Report" and discuss how they have adapted to the classroom environment and expectations so far.

We will also briefly discuss their progress on IEP goals in the classroom. You will receive an officially progress report at the beginning of next quarter that will include progress made with specialist (Speech, OT, etc.).

Donation Request

I have a few donation requests for projects we will work on next quarter. Soon I will upload hyperlinks with where to find these items on our class website. For now, here is what I am thinking:

- Paper Towels
- Wooden Toy cars that we can paint/ decorate.
- Fast Food packaging that is clean
- Pumpkins (please don't bring me pumpkins before track out—they will rot before we can use them!)

Optional Homework

- If you have access to the internet, look up Daniel Tiger's song "You can take a turn and then I'll get it back" on youtube and practice singing it with your child. Remind them of this song when fights naturally arise amongst your child and her peers/ siblings.
